Theology as Knowledge of God

“For God is the God of the humble, the miserable, the afflicted, the oppressed, the desperate, and those who have been brought down to nothing at all. And it is the nature of God to exalt the humble, to feed the hungry, to enlighten the blind, to comfort the miserable and afflicted, to justify sinners, to give life to the dead, and to save those who are desperate and damned. For he is the Almighty Creator, who makes everything out of nothing. In the performance of this, His natural and proper work, He does not allow himself to be interfered with by that dangerous pest, the presumption of righteousness, which refuses to be sinful, impure, miserable, and damned but wants to be righteous and holy.” – Luther (LW 26:314).

Promissio

A Journal of Confessing Theology

Theology is not freethinking but “freed thinking” and therewith bound to its liberating Lord. Therefore, Promissio undertakes theology for the sake of informing and enabling the proclamation of the Gospel of Jesus Christ.

In order to do so, it operates within a zone in which constraint and freedom are neither separable nor confused.
